PREFACE.

FEW subjects have of late years more employed the pens of every class of critics, than the improvement of the English Language. The greatest abilities in the nation have been exerted in cultivating and reforming it; nor have a thousand minor critics been wanting to add their mite of amendment to their native tongue. Johnson, whose large mind and just taste made him capable of enriching and adorning the Language with original composition, has condescended to the drudgery of disentangling, explaining, and arranging it, and left a lasting monument of his ability, labour, and patience; and Dr. Lowth, the politest scholar of the age, has veiled his superiority in his short Introduction to English Grammar. The ponderous folio has vindicated the rights of analogy; and the light ephemeral sheet of news has corrected errors in Grammar, as well as in politicks, by slyly marking them in Italicks.

Nor has the improvement stopped here. While Johnson and Lowth have been insensibly operating on the orthography and construction of our Language, its pronunciation has not been neglected. The importance of a consistent and regular pronunciation was too obvious to be overlooked; and the want of this consistency and regularity has induced several ingenious men to endeavour at a reformation; who, by exhibiting the regularities of pronunciation, and pointing out its analogies, have reclaimed some words that were not irrecoverably fixed in a wrong sound, and prevented others from being perverted by ignorance or caprice.

Among those writers who deserve the first praise on this subject, is Mr. Elphinston; who, in his principles of the English Language, has reduced the chaos to a system; and, by a deep investigation of the analogies of our tongue, has laid the foundation of a just and regular pronunciation.

After him, Dr. Kenrick contributed a portion of improvement by his Rhetorical Dictionary; in which the words are divided into syllables as they are pronounced, and figures placed over the vowels, to indicate the different sounds. But this gentleman has rendered his Dictionary extremely imperfect, by entirely omitting a great number of words of doubtful and difficult pronunciation—those very words for which a Dictionary of this kind would be most consulted.

To him succeeded Mr. Sheridan, who not only divided the words into syllables, and placed figures over the vowels, as Dr. Kenrick had done, but, by spelling these syllables as they are pronounced, seemed to complete the idea of a Pronouncing Dictionary, and to leave but little expectation of future improvement. It must, indeed, be confessed, that Mr. Sheridan's Dictionary is greatly superiour to every other that preceded it; and his method of conveying the sound of words, by spelling them as they are pronounced, is highly rational and useful.—But here sincerity obliges me to stop. Numerous instances of impropriety, inconsistency, and want of acquaintance with the analogies of the Language, sufficiently show that his Dictionary is upon the whole imperfect, and that ample room was left for attempting another, which might better answer the purpose of a Guide to Pronunciation.

The last writer on this subject is Mr. Nares, who, in his Elements of Orthœpy, has shown a clearness of method and an extent of observation which deserve the highest encomiums. His Preface alone proves him an elegant writer, as well as a philosophical observer of Language; and his Alphabetical Index, referring near five thousand words to the rules for pronouncing them, is a new and useful method of treating the subject; but he seems on many occasions, to have mistaken the best usage, and to have paid too little attention to the first principles of pronunciation.

Thus I have ventured to give my opinion of my rivals and competitors, and I hope without envy or self-conceit. Perhaps it would have been policy in me to have been silent on this head, for fear of putting the public in mind that others have written on the subject as well as myself: but this is a narrow policy, which, under the colour of tenderness to others, is calculated to raise ourselves at their expense. A writer who is conscious he deserves the attention of the public, (and unless he is thus conscious he ought not to write) must not only wish to be compared with those who have gone before him, but will promote the comparison, by informing his readers what others have done, and on what he founds his pretensions to a preference; and if this be done with fairness and without acrimony, it can be no more inconsistent with modesty, than it is with honesty and plain dealing.

The work I have offered on the subject has, I hope, added something to the public stock; as I have endeavoured to unite the science of Mr. Elphinston, the method of Mr. Nares, and the general utility of Mr. Sheridan.

With respect to the explanation of words, except in very few instances, I have scrupulously followed Dr. Johnson. His Dictionary has been deemed lawful plunder by every subsequent lexicographer; and so servilely has it been copied, that such words as he must have omitted merely by mistake, as Predilection, Respectable, Descriptive, Sulky, Inimical, Interference, and many others, are neither in Mr. Sheridan's, Dr. Kenrick's, nor several other Dictionaries.

N. B. The preceding preface is extracted from that originally prefixed to the quarto Dictionary by Mr. Walker.

 ¶ We frequently hear disputes whether this word should be pronounced in four syllables, as it is here, with the accent on the second; or in three, as if divided into an-ti-podes, with the accent on the first syllable, and the last rhyming with abodes. To solve the difficulty, it must be observed that the word is pure Latin;
 and that when we adopt such words in-
 to our own language, we seldom alter the accent. The singular of this word is not in use. [popedom]

CLASSICAL PRONUNCIATION OF GREEK, LATIN AND SCRIPTURE

PROPER NAMES :

In which the words are accented and divided into syllables exactly as they ought to be pronounced, according to rules drawn from Analogy and the best usage.

ABRIDGED.

RULES,

FOR PRONOUNCING THE VOWELS OF GREEK AND LATIN PROPER NAMES.

1. EVERY vowel, with the accent on it at the end of a syllable, is pronounced with its first long open sound : as, Ca'to, Lu'cifer.
2. Every accented vowel not ending a syllable, but followed by a consonant, has the short sound, as in English : thus, Man'lius, Col'chis.
3. Every final i, though unaccented, has the long open sound : as Magis'tri. And when the accented i is followed by i final, both are pronounced like the noun eye : as, Achi'vi.
4. Every unaccented i ending a syllable not final, as that in the second of Alcibi'ades, is pronounced like e, as if written Alcebiades. And therefore if the unaccented i and the diphthong œ conclude a word, they are both pronounced like e : as, Harpy'ia, Harpy'e-e.
5. The diphthongs ae and oe, ending a syllable with the accent on it, are pronounced exactly like the long English e : as Cæsar, Oeta ; and like the short e when followed by a consonant in the same syllable : as Daedalus, Oedipus, &c. The vowels ei are generally pronounced like long i. The vowels eu and ou in the end of words are generally to be divided : as Idomene'us, Alcin'o-us.
6. Y is exactly under the same predicament as i.
7. A, ending an unaccented syllable, has the same obscure sound as in the same situation in English words ; but it is a sound bordering on the Italian a, or the a in Author : as Dia'na.

8. E final, either with or without the preceding consonant, always forms a distinct syllable: as Penelop-e Evo-e. When a Greek or Latin word is Anglicised into this termination, by cutting off a syllable of the original, it becomes then an English word, and is pronounced according to our own analogy.

RULES,

FOR PRONOUNCING THE CONSONANTS OF GREEK AND LATIN PROPER NAMES.

9. C and G are hard before a, o, and u: as Comus, Galba, &c.—and soft before e, i, and y: as Cinna, Geryon, &c.

10. T, S, and C, before ia, ie, ii, io, iu, and eu, preceded by the accent, change into sh and zh: as Tatianus, Caduceus, &c. pronounced Tasheanus, Cadusheus. But when the accent is on the first of the diphthongal vowels, the preceding consonant does not go into sh: as Milti'ades.

11. T and S, in proper names, ending in tia, sia, cyon, and sion, preceded by the accent, change the t and s into sh and zh.

12. Ch, before a vowel, are always pronounced like k, as Chabrias, Colchis, &c.—when they come before a mute consonant at the beginning of a word, they are mute: as, Chthonia, pron. Thonia. C before n, or before t, and g before n, in the beginning of words, are silent: as, Cnopus, Gnidus, &c.

13. In words beginning with mn, tn, &c. the m and t are silent: as Mnemosyne, Tmolus, &c.

14. Ph, followed by a consonant, is silent, as Phthia.

15. P before s in the beginning of words is silent: as in Psyche, Psammeticus, &c.

16. P before t is subject to the same rule.

17. The letters s, x and z, require but little observation, being generally pronounced as in pure English words.

OBSERVATIONS

ON THE PRONUNCIATION OF SCRIPTURE PROPER NAMES.

1. In the pronunciation of the letters of the Hebrew proper names, nearly the same rules prevail as in the Greek and Latin. Our observations, therefore, will be few. When the vowels end a syllable with the accent on it, they have their long open sound, as Na'bul, Je'huz, &c.

2. The vowels ai are sometimes pronounced in one syllable, and sometimes in two. When these letters are final, and are used as a diphthong, they have the sound of ay in the English words holyday, roundelay, unaccented. When they are in the middle of a word, and followed by a vowel, the i is sounded as if it were a y,—thus, Ben-ai'ah is pronounced as if written Ben-a'yah.

3. Ch is pronounced like k, as Chebur, Enoch. In Cherubim and Rachel, ch have the English sound, as in charm.

4. G is always hard before e and i, as in Gera, Gideon.

5. The termination ah ought to be pronounced like the a in father. Final h preserves the other vowels open, as Colhozeh, Shiloh, &c. pron. Colhozee, Shilo. If the accent be on the ah, it ought to be sounded like the a in father: as Tah-e-ra, Tah'pe-nes.

¶ In words of two syllables, with but a single consonant between them, the consonant generally belongs to the first syllable.

PRONUNCIATION OF SCRIPTURE PROPER NAMES.

☞ When a word is succeeded by a word printed in Italics, the latter is merely to spell the former as it ought to be pronounced.
